I

Letter from C. D'A. CROFTON, Esq., I.C.S., Collector of Bellary, to the Secretary to Government, Public Works and Labour Department, (through the Inspector-General of Police, and the Deputy Inspector-General of Police, Central Range), dated the 23rd July 1927, Ref. C. No. 3914.

[Criminal Tribes Act—Sections 3 and 10—Application to Picharis of Bellary district—Proposals submitted.]

In forwarding herewith the proposals of the District Superintendent of Police for declaring the 'Picharis' of this district as a criminal tribe, I have to state that all the adult male members of this tribe have either been proved to have committed or are reasonably believed to be addicted to the commission of non-bailable offences and to request that orders may be issued declaring the whole tribe as a criminal tribe under section 3 of the Act.

2. The suggestions of the District Superintendent of Police, Bellary, in paragraph 13 of his statement are opposed to the latest orders of Government. If the whole tribe is declared a criminal tribe as suggested above, registration will at present be confined to those who are actively concerned in crimes and whose names are furnished in the enclosed statement. I request that Government will be pleased to direct the application of provisions of section 10 (1) (a) and (b) of the Act to those members as have already convictions.

Picharis of Bellary.

There are two batches of these people in this district resident at Sugganaballi and Sanapuram within Kampli station limits of Hospet circle.

2 They are closely related to the criminal tribes interned in Gadag and Hubli Settlements of Dharwar district, Bombay Presidency, to the criminal tribe of Kurnool district registered under G.O. No. 1245, dated 7th November 1925, and to those interned in the Criminal Tribes Settlements at Nizam Sagar and Hymayath Sagar in His Exalted Highness the Nizam's dominions.

3. In Kurnool district they are known as 'Nir or Haran Shikaris' and in the Nizam's territory as 'Pardis'. I have made out a partial genealogical tree, which I believe to be accurate, which will show at a glance the close relationship which exists between these different batches.

4. If one considers their history within living memory, this relationship is not very surprising. Some fifty years ago all these batches lived in Hyderabad's southern districts, but they made themselves so troublesome in the way of crime that an extensive raid was made upon them by the Hyderabad Police. After this raid some of them crossed the Tungabhadra to this district, some went to Kurnool district and others to Bijapur of Bombay Presidency.

5 Those who came to this district divided into two lots, one going to Bagavadi and the other to Badanahatti. The latter batch was brought to its present destination about thirty years ago by one Chennana Gowd, the late village magistrate of that village, ostensibly with the object of giving them work. He gave them a small quantity of land for their upkeep, but it is certainly not sufficient for that purpose, and was really only used as a respectable cloak to hide their nefarious form of living.

6. After some time about a dozen of these persons shifted to Ittigi village and were working under Bhimana Gowd, another village magistrate, and they went there apparently at the invitation of the said village magistrate. Again they moved to Araliballi and finally settled where they now are at Sanapuram.

7. The batch who settled at Bagavadi, taking advantage of their strong strategic position on the banks of the river in hilly country and being within a stone's throw of the Nizam's dominions, working in concert with their relations in that territory, earned a name for themselves in the world of crime, which has seldom been equalled in any district. Their culminating effort was five dacoities, several big burglaries and two murders (one of a police constable) in the space of one week in the year 1921, in the Nizam's dominions. This led to a joint drive organized by the District Superintendents of Police of Raichur and Bellary under the ægis of the Director of Criminal Intelligence, Hyderabad, in which many were rounded up and sent to criminal settlements. In the Nizam's territory. Since that time Bagavadi knew them no more, as the residue fled to Jolapur in Kurnool district, where, as reported above, they have since been registered as a criminal tribe. I do not think that this is irrelevant to the case now under consideration because these Bagavadi budmashes are the closest relations to those I am now referring to, and circumstances in the past two years have left little doubt in my mind but that those now in this district act as spies and harbourers to those of Kurnool and Hyderabad and share in their booty. I do not intend to go into all the circumstantial evidence which I might produce to support this view, but suffice it to say that it exists. I shall, however, mention two points. The investigation of a Rs. 10,000 burglary in Bellary Cantonment in 1925 showed fairly clearly that these people were concerned together with those of Kurnool, and during the very recent burglary scare in Bellary town a number of their women were found suddenly to have arrived in the town and had been there for some days before they were unearthed during the searching of likely dens when the scare arose.

8. To revert to our present lot: Their ostensible means of living is a small quantity of useless lands, to till which they make no pretence, neither do they own even a bullock, plough or other article which might be used to that end, and the catching of birds, hares and deer. The latter occupation also is not such as would supply them with even a day's living in a week, even when supplemented by the begging of their women folk.

9. One of my predecessors in the year 1923 tried to turn this natural propensity of game-snaring towards the making of an honest livelihood for them, and gave them guns to assist their nets in catching and killing game for the Bellary market. He gave them also pass-books proving their identity and in which village magistrates and other officials were asked to sign as proof that they were living by honest means. This system lasted for some little time and the people of Bellary purchased their game, but, as was bound to happen, the market was not extensive enough and the economic conditions and the law of supply and demand killed the idea. Towards the end of this effort some of them were caught redhanded committing burglary in Bellary town and were convicted therefor. The records of crime at the time would go to show that these crimes were not the first they had committed while presumed to be leading an honest life under the actual protection and with the goodwill of the Police. After this episode they retired from the vicinity of Bellary town and have since been living in their villages.

10. I was about to put them up to be registered under the Criminal Tribes Act when further registration was suspended pending revision of the Criminal Tribes Act Rules. I then registered them as district gangs and as such they have been for some little time now.

11. Their history, as given briefly above, taken with the fact that they are obviously of the gipsy class, as is shown by their dress, speech and manner of living, would almost be sufficient to demand their registration as a criminal tribe, but their own actual criminal history as shown by convictions and association in crime in the attached statements * will, I believe, leave no doubt about the matter.

12. In dealing with any off-shoots of the gipsy tribe, I believe that the first thing to be done with them is to try to settle them to regular occupation if they are to be weaned from their natural propensity towards the easy life provided so freely in this country by crime. There may not be much hope for the adults of the present day but I have seen great examples of the children settling the work when once their roving has been checked. It is like lopping of half of an individual's nature and grafting on a nature of a different kind. What is possible in wild nature is also possible in human nature and I do not despair. I have noticed that the other gipsy tribes, such as Korachas and Lambadis, when once settled in one place, turn their hands to regular employment as provided by the open market where they settle. On this account I would strongly recommend that the provisions of the Criminal Tribes Act be applied to the persons mentioned in this report, so that we may make some effort to induce them to take to regular work in and around their villages. In order to do this it will be essential to have them notified under sections 10 (a) and 10 (b) of the Act.

13. In this connexion I would state that I have read the views of the Government in their discussion on the recently framed rules under the Act and I would respectfully submit that without the application of sections 10 (a) and 10 (b) to these people the application of the Act would be of no avail. I would also, with due deference, submit that the progressive stages of the Act to be effective must be from the more severe to the more lenient provisions, as the state of the tribe advances, and not vice versa. In other words, I would not give the members of a tribe the opportunity of becoming worse before the more severe measures such as sections 10 (a) and 10 (b) are applied to them, but encourage them to look forward to the removal of the restrictions progressively as they settle to an honest livelihood. This method is showing very good results with the other criminal tribes registered in this district already.

14. At this stage a glance at the genealogical tree * enclosed will be instructive. The pencil numbers are the persons of this district about whom I write, the blue numbers are the actual criminal tribe register numbers of those interned in Gadag Settlement. Similarly the red and purple are actual criminal tribe numbers in Hubli and Kurnool district respectively, with the exception of two marked × × × thus in purple who belong to Nizam's Settlements. A similar tree could easily be made out to connect them more closely with Hyderabad but, for various reasons, I prefer to stick to British India for my evidence.

15. The evidence of systematic commission of non-bailable offences against these people will be found in the attached statements *. Some of them have been convicted in 1902, 1903, 1907, 1908, 1915, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1924 and 1926, which shows that they have been systematically committing non-bailable offences. The actual number of convictions under the Indian Penal Code may not be heavy but those under the security sections are very heavy. This goes to show that they have committed much more crime than has ever been brought home to them in actual cases. One may take it, I presume, that there must be a very sound ground in a security case that a person bound over has been implicated in at least three or four non-bailable offences.

16. Their association in crime is proved by Statement C * attached showing their joint convictions.

17. They are not a large community but their relationship with other notorious tribes renders it essential, for the safety of the public of Bellary district, that they should be declared a criminal tribe, in order to bring them under closer observation.

18. I therefore strongly urge that the Government be moved to declare them a criminal tribe and for the reasons already stated to apply sections 10 (a) and 10 (b) of the Act to them at the same time.

19. I enclose draft notifications * for these purposes.
